West Point, Va.

Located in the good old county of King William, at the head of navigation on that grand little river, the York, which is but 45 miles in length with a width of two and one balf miles is the thriving little town of West Point. The depth of water here is about 25 feet, sufficient to float the largest steamers, the shipping being one of the main features of the town, which has for over 30 years been Steamer GEORGE LEARY (Potomac Steamboat Company) MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS and FRIDAYS, at 5:30 p. m. Steamer JANE MOSELEY (Inland and Scaboard Cossting Company) TUESDAYS and THURSDAYS at 5:30 p. m., and SUNDAYS at 5 foreign shipping port with extensive wharf-age, and is one of the termini of the great Richmond and Danville railroad system. The immense freights brought here by rail are handled promptly and shipped without delay; a large force of hands is necessary and the general push and remarkable ac-tivity is wonderful. Good pay is given and rapid work is expected. Cotton shipments to Europe are very heavy from this port. The 'ast steamer carried out over 6,000 bales as well as quantities of tobacco in hogsheads, and other merchandise. Large steamers from Baltimore daily arrive filled with freights for southern points.

There are two large steam cotton compress companies here, and a large bale of cotton is pressed into about one third its usual size, thereby enabling a steamer to carry over double the number of bales than under the old system.

West Point is delightfully situated and but for the several swamps on either side of the town would present a neat appearance as you enter it. Soon, however, these must be filled up and built over to accommodate the railroad and steambeat business. The salt water tide flows in and out daily and it is said that the swamps are not unhealth; The general health of the place is now good and has been since the sinking of the artesian wells which supply the purest water from on average depth of 200 feet. There are now over one hundred artesian wells in the town constantly pouring forth their streams of pure water, which flow about twelve feet above tide level. The town is lighted by electricity, as are also the wharves, hot is and many private residences. The land improvement company, a Virginia enterprise is now laying off leage additions to Telephone No. 2

It is lighted throughout by electricity and equipped with every modern convenience. There are a number of small manufactories here, and it is important that others should be opened up. The only hosiery factory in the State is located here; has been in operation over two years and is being cularged, and will be furnished with the latest improved machinery. The oyster, fish and crab business is heavy here in season. Crabs can be caught in quantities all around the wharves, and the fishing is generally good. Although West Point has such wet surroundings, it is nevertheless a "dry" town, "spiritually" speaking, local option having decapitated King Alcohol over two years ago, and from the boisterous, noisy, fighting town that it was when the "beverage" was sold, it is now very quiet and remarkably peaceful, considering large proportion of a combative element that forms a part of the population. There are several large boarding schools. West Point will doubtless continue to grow, as its advantages are apparent to all observers. C. W. G.
